Dear colleagues, students and friends,

This month our university has opened its doors for those interesting in complete their academic preparation in a multicultural, professional and international environment.

We have the chance to meet extraordinary young people with a strong international focus and we hope many of them will become our students

Thanking you for the attention paid to our Institute, I wish you all the best!

Iordan Gheorghe Barbulescu

Particular, I expressed my conviction that the MA program in Latin American Studies will represent an excellent choice for all those interested to improve their knowledge about Latin American and Caribbean zone.

EU-LAC recent news

The second EU-LAC Academic Summit

The second EU-LAC Academic Summit will be held on 8-9 June 2015 in Brussels.

This edition is coordinated by the Belgian Local Organizing Committee and the Executive Secretariat Permanent Academic Forum EU-LAC, with the support of the EU-LAC Foundation.

The purpose of this second Academic Summit is to broaden and make progress in the implementation of the proposals issued in the Santiago Summit for establishing the EU-CELAC common space for higher education, science, technology and innovation. In particular, the Summit points to incentive both academic communities to work together for meeting this goal.

Participation is free and open to all universities, research centers, associations, scientific networks and academic persons from the countries members of the European Union and the Community of Latin American and Caribbean States (CELAC)
